- Ervia’s values are collaboration, performance, customer service, safety and integrity. These values define the character of the organisation, guide our actions and decisions and provide a framework for how we interact with our colleagues, customers and stakeholders.
- Ethical standards must underpin how we conduct our business on a daily basis.
- Ervia’s reputation and the trust and confidence of those with whom we deal is one of our most vital corporate resources and the protection of this resource is of fundamental importance to Ervia and a key ingredient for success.

3. SCOPE

- For the purpose of this Code of Business Conduct (the “Code”) the term “Ervia” should be construed as including Ervia and its subsidiary companies in any geographic region (i.e. Gas Networks Ireland and Irish Water). Ervia may incorporate further subsidiaries from time to time and this Code shall apply to all subsidiaries notwithstanding that they may not be in existence at the time this Code was put in place.
- It is impractical to legislate in sufficient detail to cover every eventuality that could arise that would present Employees with a conflict of interest or other ethical issue. Accordingly, Employees should be aware that the spirit as well as the precise wording of the Code should be observed.

- Where a conflict of interest situation could arise for an Employee, he/she must desist from dealing with the matter giving rise to that situation and may not attempt in any way to influence Ervia’s decision on the matter. An Employee who has a concern or query into his or her particular circumstances which may give rise to a situation where there is an actual or potential conflict of interest or other ethical issue should consult with the Group Chief Legal Officer.
- Involvement by an Employee in outside employment/business interests in conflict or potential conflict with the business of Ervia is prohibited.
- An Employee who is at any time involved in any gainful employment and/or the running of any business or company outside Ervia must inform his or her line manager in writing at the earliest possible opportunity. This applies likewise to consultancy and contract work undertaken by an Employee outside his or her employment. Any activity which has the potential to impair an Employee’s ability to execute his or her duties or to fulfil his or her primary role in Ervia, is prohibited.
- It is recommended that the acceptance by an Employee of an engagement and/or employment where the potential for conflict of interest arises should be avoided during a reasonable period of time after the exercise of a function in Ervia has ceased. In good time before taking up an engagement and/or employment which will or might involve a conflict of interest, a former employee should consult with the Group Chief Legal Officer.¹
